LIMITED LEAVES - WHITE TEA
LL10	DONGZHAI GARDEN · CHINA WHITE SNOW DRAGON Only the young leaf buds, which have a velvety silvery surface and many typical white hairs, are picked for this white tea specialty of the Dongzhai plantation in the Chinese province of Yunnan. The rolled leaves create a light but at the same time tangy-vegetal infusion with a subtle note of wild peaches.	100 g (~ 25 portions)	320 kr	12,80	White tea* *From certified organic cultivation (DE-ÖKO-009)
LL11	DONGZHAI GARDEN · CHINA YUNNAN MOONLIGHT FIRST GRADE Exceptionally large, open leaves in two strikingly contrasting shades give this special white tea from the Dongzhai tea garden its name Moonlight. When infused, the velvety tea leaves unfold their full spectrum of flavors, ranging from soft bittersweet cocoa nuances to floral top notes.	75 g (~ 19 portions)	320 kr	16,80	White tea* *From certified organic cultivation (DE-ÖKO-009)
LIMITED LEAVES - YELLOW TEA
LL20	DONGZHAI GARDEN · CHINA YELLOW DRAGON FIRST GRADE its name to the characteristic golden-yellow coloring of its leaves and the special type of fermentation. It is only slightly fermented and thus gains strength without losing its lightness. The full-bodied taste of Yellow Dragon Dongzhai is the perfect combination of the softness of white tea and the typical bread and nut notes of an oolong.	100 g (~ 25 portions)	240 kr	9,60	Yellow tea* *From certified organic cultivation (DE-ÖKO-009)

LIMITED LEAVES - GREEN TEA JAPAN
LL30	MORIMOTO GARDEN · JAPAN GYOKURO The sweet secret of this unique Gyokuro from the Morimoto family's plantation in Japan lies in the combination of two types of tea bushes and the small proportion of delicate petioles that remain between the leaves. This extraordinary manufacture gives the tea its palate-flattering, tart-grassy aroma, reminiscent of fine green leafy vegetables.	250 g (~ 63 portions)	1200 kr	19,05	Green tea* *From certified organic cultivation (DE-ÖKO-009)
LL31	HAYASHI GARDEN · JAPAN SENCHA TOKUSEN For this Sencha speciality, the tea leaves picked on the Hayashi plantation are steamed a little longer than usual immediately after harvesting. This makes the leaf structure extremely fine, the leaf itself becomes intensely green and the taste has a pleasantly soft aroma of fresh algae which is highly appreciated by Japanese tea connoisseurs.	250 g (~ 63 portions)	920 kr	14,60	Green tea* *From certified organic cultivation (DE-ÖKO-009)
LL32	WATANABE GARDEN · JAPAN PREMIUM GENMAICHA The Watanabe tea garden is known for its particularly fresh, fine and dry leaves, which perfectly blends with the subtle sweetness of natural rice. Combined together, the result is a particularly well-balanced genmaicha whose Japanese origin is clearly tasted. The special feature: Intense puffed rice notes rise directly into the nose when enjoyed and stimulate the sense of taste.	250 g (~ 63 portions)	680 kr	10,79	Green tea*, rice* *From certified organic cultivation (DE-ÖKO-009)
LL33	HAYASHI GARDEN · JAPAN KUKICHA The first fine shoots of the year are harvested early on the Hayashi plantation and steamed for just a little longer than usual during processing. This elicits many plant components from the tea and ensures an intense infusion with an almost vanilla-like sweetness. Although the Kuki-cha is less tangy than other Japanese teas, the typical, spicy-grassy flavor is well recognized.	250 g (~ 63 portions)	680 kr	10,79 kr	Green tea* *From certified organic cultivation (DE-ÖKO-009)
